ENGLISH UNION LABOR DECLARES WAR

MILITARY PLANS MAPPED AS ALL TRADES ORDER WALK OUT

Most Stupendous Tie-Up of Industries in England For Years--Strike Started by Union Miners and The Union Labor in Other Callings are in Sympathy--Newspapers Forced to Quit Publication--Government Taking a Hand--Edict Against Hoarding of Food

"War has been declared," was the cry in Great Britain Monday morning.

Negotiations to prevent a general strike at midnight collapsed. The entire British cabinet and 30 members of the General Council of the Trades Union congress not only failed to reach an agreement, but the government immediately issued a statement refusing to resume parleying unless the congress withdrew the general strike orders and repudiated other overt acts, which the government describes as challenging the constitutional rights and freedom of the nation.

While both sides vainly sought peace, they prepared for conflict. The war office and the admiralty stopped all leaves for soldiers and sailors and mapped out plans to move armed forces to strategic points in the country.

Hyde Park and other big enclosed spaces in London and other cities will be taken over by the authorities both for quarters for troops and for use as commissariat centers.

The Labor Council was in session all day preparing their own measures to feed the people.

The overt acts specified in the governments statement include interference with the freedom of the press. The first effect of the nation-wide strike order was felt when Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail failed to issue its regular edition.

The printers stopped work when the editors failed to withdraw an appeal for the support of the government.

The printers objected to the statement that the strike leaders "are influenced by people who mean no good to this country," and that "the strike is not an industrial dispute; it is a revolutionary movement to inflict suffering on a great mass of innocent people and put a forcible constraint on the government."

With less than 48 hours left in which to avert the peril of the general strike, Premier Stanley Baldwin began a series of conferences when he conferred with First Lord of the Admiralty Bridgman regarding the use of the navy in the event of the strike maturing.

Later the cabinet went into session, discussed the coal strike and drafted emergency measures to meet the crisis.

Representatives of the Trades Union congress conferred with the premier, who strove to persuade the leaders to suspend the general strike order to enable negotiations between the coal operators and miners to be resumed on a new basis.

A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' federation issued a statement which declared that "under no circumstances can the miners accept any agreement which lowers the standard of living. Wages are already too low."

Railroad managers appealed to the railroad workers not to respond to the strike call, saying:

"We have demonstrated we can settle our disputes by direct negotiation. The mining industry should be advised to do the same."

A government announcement says: "If the people loyally and unselfishly carry out the regulations that will be enforced regarding food, coal, gasoline and other essentials, they will not suffer. There must be no hoarding of necessities."

In view of the attitude taken by the unions there does not appear to be the least probability that they will adopt the course the government has demanded from them, and the general strike consequently will go into effect at midnight tonight.

AUTO CAUGHT FIRE.

An auto belonging to a colored man named Crawford and hailing from Columbus, caught fire on Town street near Court Sunday evening at 10:50 o'clock and was badly damaged before the department arrived.

The machine caught fire when the gasoline feed came in contact with a match. The car was damaged to the extent of from $75 to $100 and was taken to Columbus for repairs.

The alarm was sounded from box 52 by employees of the Shaner Oil Filling station on South Court street.

LURE OF SAWDUST.

Rudolph Gessley attended the Hagenback-Wallace show in Chillicothe today. He went down to visit his old friend, Bert Cole, the official announcer, and of course, will give the show the once over.

ANOTHER FOR PEGGY

Stanford E. Comstock, realtor of Miami, Fla., and formerly of Chicago, is Peggy Joyce's latest conquest, and they admit that they are engaged. However, Mrs. Evelyn Comstock of Chicago asserts she and Stanford were not legally divorced.

MAYOR ISSUED PROCLAMATION TO THE PUPILS

Mayor G. M. Fitzpatrick issued a proclamation to the future citizens of Circleville and which was read in the schools today in which he asks their cooperation.

Among other things Mayor Fitzpatrick says:

"I know that you have patriotism and pride in our town and that you will help me by carrying home this message of 'Clean-Up-Week' and that you yourselves will help clean up and paint up and assist your parents and the city administration to make 'Clean-Up-Week' a grand success."

Wisconsin Town Saved From Flood by Sandbags

After an all-night fight, residents of Portage, Wis., succeeded in blocking a break in the wall of a canal between the Fox and Wisconsin rivers, and saved the town from an imminent flood. The high waters forced down seventy-five feet of the wall, and weakened the gates at the Wisconsin river end of the canal. Citizens filled the gap with granite and sandbags.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Cleves--Authorities today were investigating the cause of fire which destroyed the public school building here Sunday with an estimated loss of $35,000.

Toledo--An inquest was held today into the death of Elmer Wheeler, 40, of Toledo, who was burned to death when fire destroyed a barn here. Wheeler's body was identified by his two brothers.

Springfield--Three Ohioans, Erwin S. Spees, of Wapakoneta, Herbert T. Neve of Springfield and Emery R. Yohe, of Carey, were among nine young ministers graduated from Hama Divinity school of Wittenberg here.

Canton--A charge of first degree murder was lodged today against Tony Horvith, who has confessed, according to police that he shot and killed John Kovacs Jr., 23, his landlord, during a quarrel.

Cleveland--The first Cleveland swimming victim so far this year was George Balmer, 13, who was seized with cramps and drowned within the Edgewater breakwater Sunday.

Cincinnati--Benjamin Tannebeck, who lives in a shanty boat at Melbourne, Kentucky, was charged with murder today following the shooting of Paul Herzog, 26, at a camp near Melbourne. The two quarreled, according to police.

Georgetown--Fire of undetermined origin swept the entire business block here today, causing damage tentatively estimated at $125,000.

The blaze first was discovered in a bakeshop. Fanned by a high wind, it spread to adjoining structures and soon five buildings including the Methodist church had been razed.

MISS KATE PEDRICK DEAD. Miss Kate Pedrick died at the Pauline Home in Columbus Sunday evening, in her 89th year.

She was born in this city, January 23, 1838, a daughter of Thomas and Mary Keffer Pedrick and was a cousin of Mrs. Samuel C. Gamble and Misses Alice and Jennie Pedrick, of this city. The funeral services will be held in Columbus Tuesday. Interment in Forest cemetery.

BRONZE MEDAL AWARDED FOR DECLAMATION

Miss Garnet Van Buskirk Was Winner in the Contest at Methodist Church.

Miss Garnet Van Buskirk was adjudged the winner of the Prince of Peace Declaration contest held at the First Methodist church Sunday evening and received the bronze medal awarded by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The winner of this contest will represent the church in the county silver medal contest to be held on or before May 16. Silver medal winners of each congressional district will compete later for a gold medal and district champions of the entire state will meet in Columbus June 23 to compete for the three cash prizes of $500, $300 and $200, each of which will be accompanied by a free tuition college scholarship.

Miss Van Buskirk delivered the declamation "The March of the Dead" written by J. H. Dickason, as one of 29 selections published for use in the Prince of Peace contest by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Judges in the contest were Mr. Meeker Terwilliger, Miss Flora Dunlap and Professor A. F. Cameron. The attendance was 117.

The winner is a member of the sophomore class at Circleville high school and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Van Buskirk of 354 East Union street.

Other contestants were Lucile Hegele, Herma Laughlin, Katherine Hegele and Kenneth Ulm.

GRADUATES IN JUNE.

Paul Hampp, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hampp, of Barberton, formerly of this city, who was the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Hampp, has returned home. Mr. Hampp will graduate in June from the Akron university in industrial engineering.

Columbus--A second letter in which he urges the calling of a special session of the legislature to amend the road tax laws, has been sent to Governor Vic Donahey by Congressman Charles Brand, of Urbana.

Fred Herron, of Williamsport, was placed under arrest Sunday on the charge of running an auto with exhaust open. He put up $5 for his appearance this evening.

Henry Wogan arrested Saturday and who is charged with stealing the wheels off "Dude" Stottlemire's wagon, will have a hearing this evening.

LUTFIA YOUSRY

The charming daughter of the former minister to the United States from Egypt. She is soon to wed A. M. Hassanain, former secretary of the legation.

AUTOMOBILE DEATH TOLL IS ALARMING

Columbus--The death toll of automobile accidents is almost as great as that taken by contagious diseases, the state registrar of vital statistics announced today.

In January, the registrar asserted, there were 75 traffic fatalities, fourteen of them grade-crossing accidents and two interurban crashes. In the same month deaths from contagious diseases numbered 124, only 49 more than the traffic toll.

B. F. Benford was a business visitor in Columbus today.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken From the Records of the Various County Offices.

The court of appeals, with Judge Roscoe Mauck, of Gallipolis, presiding, and Judges Edwin D. Sayre, of Athens, and W. H. Middleton, of Waverly, associates in session last week affirmed the decisions of the lower courts in two cases and reversed one.

In the case of the State, on the complaint of the board of education of Pickaway township rural school district of Pickaway county, on error, against George Steely and others defendants, the court reversed the findings of the probate and common pleas courts.

Suit was brought in the probate court to recover a certificate of deposit amounting to $25,000 given by Nelson Hitler to Jessie Steely.

The probate court held that the time had elapsed in which to bring the suit, the case was prosecuted to the common pleas and the judgment of the probate court was sustained.

The court of appeals reversed both the lower courts and held that the action was not barred by the statute of limitations and that the plaintiffs were within their legal rights in the bringing of the suit.

Barton Walters and C. A. Leist represent the plaintiffs and Judge Charles Dresbach is attorney for the defendants.

In the case of Maxwell Snyder against the State of Ohio, on error, the plaintiff was convicted in the common pleas court of perjury and this was affirmed.

C. C. Clouse and I. F. Snyder represented the plaintiff in error and Prosecuting Attorney Meeker Terwilliger represented the state.

In the case of William H. Orebaugh against Charles Rager, on error, the jury in the court below allowed Rager $607.79 in an accounting and this was affirmed.

August W. Weber and George G. Adkins represented the plaintiff and Harry Miller and I. F. Snyder were attorneys for the defendant.

DECISION IN GAS INCREASE IS EXPECTED

Columbus, O., May 3, (UP)--Barring unforeseen developments, the state supreme court tomorrow will hand down a decision as to whether the second rate increase of the Logan Gas company will be expunged from the files of the public utilities commission.

The court's decision is scheduled on a writ of error filed by the company. The writ depletes the action of the commission in "attempting to strike the rate schedule from the files" and demands its reinstatement.

The disputed increase is now being collected under bond. If the court sustains the gas company, this procedure will continue. If the utilities commission is sustained, the company will be required to rebate the collections, it was declared.

Disinfection of Stables Urgent

Of Great Importance Following Outbreak of Some Contagious Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The importance of disinfecting the premises following an outbreak of some contagious disease is not fully appreciated by the average stockman and farmer, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, this conclusion being based upon the experience of the bureau of animal industry of the department in dealing with infectious diseases of live stock. Disease germs, unless destroyed, have the power to maintain themselves in definitely on the premises, insanitary stables in particular being a favorite rendezvous. Their presence is a serious menace to the health and life of farm animals housed in such places and an epizootic of some infectious disease may at any time break out. In the disinfection of stables there are three essentials, namely, proper preparation of the building to facilitate reaching organism of disease, an effective disinfectant, and a method of applying the disinfectant that will assure thorough contact with the bacteria.

Clean Out Trash.
In the preparation of the building see that all cobwebs, dust, etc., are cleaned from the ceilings, partitions, doors, and floors, and remove all refuse including manure from the stable and barnyard to a place inaccessible to live stock. Such refuse should then be burned or treated with a solution of chloride of lime diluted with water in the proportion of six ounces chloride of lime to one gallon of water. In the case of an earth floor that has become contaminated for some depth, remove four inches or more of the surface soil, treating it with the same disinfectant as suggested for refuse and manure. Replace this layer of dirt with soil from an uncontaminated source or, better still, lay a floor of concrete, the most durable and sanitary material for a stable floor. Any woodwork that has become softened or that is so porous as to be a good medium for absorption of disease germs should be removed, burned, and replaced with new material.

It is highly important that the disinfectant used be effective. One of the best disinfectants is a mixture in the proportion of four ounces of a compound solution of cresol (a coal tar product) to one gallon of water. More detailed information relative to disinfectants and their use on the farm may be obtained from state agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Applying Disinfectant.
The best method of applying the disinfectant is by means of a strong spray pump, although where the surface to be treated is limited a white-wash brush may be used. The pump should be equipped with not less than 15 feet of hose, there being attached to the hose a five-foot section of iron pipe of the same caliber with a spraying nozzle at one end.

Legumes Check Erosion by Heavy Root System

Legume crops may check soil erosion in three ways: (1) by furnishing a cover crop, (2) by the addition of a comparatively large amount of organic matter to the soil, and (3) by a heavy root system which tends to hold the soil, according to A. H. Karraker of the agronomy department, college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Any legume may serve as a cover crop, but some legumes are especially adapted to forming a cover crop which will, to a large extent, prevent erosion on hill lands. Clovers such as red, white, mammoth, sweet and alfalfa make excellent cover crops. These cover and protect the land during the seasons when erosion is most likely to occur. These legumes are especially valuable in preventing sheet washing.

The above named legumes may be handled in such a way that they will add a large amount of organic matter to the soil and this in turn will help cut down the possibilities of erosion. The organic matter in the soil tends to absorb the water and in this way cuts down the volume of runoff. The organic matter also enriches the soil and reduces the hazard in growing cover crops.

The root systems of the legume crops play a big part in checking erosion. The roots hold the soil particles together, make the soil more retentive of moisture and add organic matter directly to the soil. The heavy root systems of sweet clover and alfalfa are well adapted to this function.

No Cure or Prevention of Dreaded Hog Cholera

No drug or combination of drugs is known that will cure or prevent hog cholera, says the United States Department of Agriculture, although some of the so-called "tonics" for hogs may have merits as condition powders for the general health of the animals. Many preparations put on the market from time to time have, in tests by federal and state institutions, been proven worthless in preventing or curing hog cholera. The only dependable agent for the prevention of this disease is the antihog-cholera serum prepared according to the methods originally worked out by the federal bureau of animal industry.

Colorful Blouses Worn With Sedate Tailcoats

There is nothing sadder about the newly arrived tailored suit for spring, even when it appears in the popular black or navy. A gay silk blouse lends it a vivid color note. Here is one of peach damask with collar and cuffs of silver cloth.

Glove Silk Lingerie Is on Spring Fashion Card

Glove silk lingerie has wedged its way to the fore. The new spring models cover every type and style of garment desired, from the simply tailored sets to the very lacy ones for evening.

A two-piece set consisting of a step-in and vest is very practical. It has two new features; the fitted waistband on the step-in and the fitted effect of the bodice part of the vest, eliminating the necessity for a drawstring. The new waistband is about three inches in width. It permits the garment to fit snugly about the hips. It is also made to button either at the hips or in front, and its fullness is achieved by tiny plaits or deep shirings stitched in a smock-like fashion. Vests with their fitted bodices and fancy-cut tops are worn outside the step-ins.

Military or tailored sets have, for decoration, bindings of the same silk in contrasting colors. These also have the fitted tops and are cut very deep under the arms. Another set has hem-stitched ruffles, with colored pipings to finish the step-ins and the vest, thereby carrying out the idea of a molded figure. For evening sets, lace insertions and dyed net are quite extensively used. In these garments the fitted bodice top is very effective. The low-cut front and back in the "V" shape are seen. White and all the pastel shades of lavender, flesh, peach, green and maize are used.

Pajamas, sleeveless affairs, are of dainty silk, satin or other materials, decorated with dainty hand-embroidery in either the same or of a contrasting color.

For basic slenderness choose a costume slip with slim lines. Select a radium habit or glove silk or silk jersey, whatever you prefer. Also make a shadow hem. Ribbon straps are used, also a piece of wide lace insertion as yoke and above hem of the skirt. Dainty embroidery decorates the center front.

Hint of Summertime in Winsome Horsehair Hat

A delicious hint of summertime is given in a white horsehair hat with very wide brim, slightly drooping, and high square crown. It has one large pink feather rose with leaves and long stem fastened across the front of the crown. This hat was made to wear with a simple white crepe de chine gown at Palm Beach. One of the same sort is pale yellow straw with a cluster of jonquils and stiff slender leaves painted directly on the front of the crown. A large, loosely arranged cluster of roses in delicate pink and tea shades is painted with fine lines of gilt on a hat of pale pink horsehair, touched off quaintly with a narrow black velvet ribbon circling the crown. Some dainty, dressy hats of tulle and lace are among the French novelties. One dashing model is in black chantilly lace frilled and wired to stand erect around a crown of silver tissue. This is worn with a frock of silver gray taffeta with a shoulder cape of black chantilly finely plaited.

Variety Marks Popular Two-Piece Jumper Frock

Each week brings further proof that the ingenuity and cleverness of designers in creating new versions of the popular two-piece jumper frock have not been exhausted. So generally becoming are these costumes and so youthful and smart that it will probably be some time before they pass out of the fashion picture.

Among the latest models to be brought out are those fashioned of shantung or rajah silks. They are on an equality and come in such a wide range of colors that they are adapted both to street frocks and to the colorful models designed for sports and country wear.

Taffeta also has found its way into the realm of the jumper dress and is used for several of the most attractive models shown this season.

Black and White

Black and white continue to form an effective alliance, especially as they appeared in a new version, which consisted of a frock of white taffeta flounced with black lace and sashed with coral velvet ribbon tied in an enormous bow on one hip.

Ancient Dicing Games

The invention of dice is mythically ascribed to Palamedes of Greece about the year 1244 B. C. The game of tali among the Romans was played with dice. The early English antiquary, Stow, mentions two entertainments given by the city of London at which dice were played.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"Why Men Leave Home," the smashing comedy success by Avery Hopwood, that most successful playwright, has been chosen for the week play to be presented by the Hartman Stock company May 3, under the direction of John Hayden. Many metropolitan critics have claimed that this is Mr. Hopwood's best play, and when you take into consideration that he was also responsible for "The Bat" and many other successes, this belief certainly bespeaks much for this latest play, "Why Men Leave Home." It is also claimed that Mr. Hopwood has tapped a virgin theme in the theater. He has hit upon a topic so vital and so universal that every playwright has reason to chide himself that he or she had not thought of it. At the same time Mr. Hopwood has brilliantly evolved a story of beauty and as brimful of good cheer and laughs as any play bearing his name. To divulge the story of the play would be to deprive you of a real thrill for it is most unusual and diverting in plot. That "Why Men Leave Home" sprang into instant favor with the New York theater-going public is not difficult to understand. The newspaper reviewers were more than enthusiastic in their praise of the play.

Jean Ford and Donn Cook will have excellent roles as will Georgia Neese, Martha Lee Manners, John Lott, Neil McFee and other members of the company, including William Ingersoll, Gilberta Faust, Forrest Orr.

The production will be complete in every way, as John Hayden, the director, saw the play produced in New York and has duplicated the sets, electrical effects and properties. Mr. Hayden's excellent direction of "Enchanted April," last week, with its beautiful setting, should be proof enough that Columbus will have the best in the future.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer. They will play your favorite piece if you request it.

Matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays. Out of town reservations will be taken care of.

AMUSEMENTS

William de Mille, whose latest Paramount production, "The Splendid Crime," at the Metropolitan theater, has every reason to feel pleased with his newest effort. It is a human and humorous little picture that stirs the emotions pleasantly. Mr. de Mille really deserves a double-barreled salvo of applause for he not only directed the photoplay, but wrote the story as well.

Bebe Daniels is the bright, shining star of this snappy, fun-filled comedy-drama, which deals with the experiences of a lovable little girl thief before and after she reforms. Having naively decided that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," Bebe considers the idea of going straight, but is persuaded by her two crook companions, one of whom is her foster father, to pull off just one more job.

This last job proves the turning point of her career, for she is caught by the youthful millionaire owner of the house she attempts to rob. Instead of handing her over to the police, he induces her to reform and lets her go. From that point the action is crowded with surprising developments that take an unexpected turn when Bebe commits "the splendid crime" to save the man she loves from turning crooked.

Bebe's admirers are sure to enjoy her performance as the ragged little Raffles. It is a part that suits her to the proverbial "T", and she plays it with intelligence and refreshing sincerity. Neil Hamilton is the gay society youth, who becomes Bebe's romantic ideal and for whom she makes the final sacrifice. Anne Cornwall and Anthony Jowitt are the other two principal players who do good work.

Loray, "The Girl With a Double Vision," will be at the Grand Opera house tonight.

Loray, marvel of the psychic, has astounded thousands of hearers by her remarkable demonstrations of occult science. This clever young mystic has a wonderfully pleasing personality and while she answers the hundreds of questions of personal and private nature, the occult powers of this wise young lady is never at fault.

It is almost impossible to believe that the ordinary mortal could perform the mysterious and bewildering things that she does. Questions dealing with love, business and purely personal matters are all answered rapidly and with surprising and amazing accuracy by her.

There are very few, if any, mind-readers on the vaudeville stage today, that answer questions so rapidly as Loray does. This gifted young lady is bringing a message to the people and is doing rare work in aiding thousands by her psychic information and advice that might be termed as of the uncanny sort.

Loray is the youngest and one of the best psychic sensations now touring vaudeville.

Does Work of Many Men

From the South Sea Islands every year hundreds of tons of copra (dried meat of the coconut) are unloaded at San Francisco. A giant "vacuum cleaner" recently installed performs the work of unloading, taking the place of a crew of twenty-five men. It unloads thirty to forty tons an hour. With it three men can do the entire job.

The Brainy Bee
The following incident testifies to the remarkable sagacity and efficiency of bees: A hive was being "spied upon" by a wasp. When wasps ascertain a hive is worth attacking they often succeed in ousting the bees. Every time the wasp approached the small entrance hole a bee came out. An hour later the wasp was dead.

Coldest Known to Science
Liquid air is a transparent, limpid and intensely cold liquid, slightly blue in color and of about the same density as water. It is prepared by subjecting air to great pressure and then cooling it by its own expansion to a temperature below the boiling point of its constituents (nitrogen—194 degrees centigrade; oxygen—183 degrees centigrade).

CRIME WAVE?

It could hardly be called that.

Yet, many a time it has been said that it is a crime to let shoes go too long before having them resoled.

Lots of good repairable shoes are lying around inactive that could be repaired and would give long additional service. This is almost criminal waste.

It is practically criminal waste to buy cheap, unrepairable shoes. our

DEMAND FOR A
GRAND JURY QUIZ

Chicago, May 1.—(UP.)—Demand for a grand jury quiz of the crime situation which since prohibition has resulted in 92 persons being killed in beer battles between the Irish and Italians—came after Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin, and two beer runners—Jimmy Doherty and Tom Duffy—were killed Tuesday night.

The three were murdered when gangsters, using a machine gun capable of 1,500 shots a minute, rained a barrage on Madigan's west end saloon. Duffy, Doherty and McSwiggin, who were standing in front of the place, were killed.

No trace of the assassins has been found although 500 police have been deputized to clean up Cook county and pick up known been racketeers.

Chemistry Most Popular

A list of the doctorates (advanced degrees for research) conferred by American colleges in 1925 reveals the interesting fact that chemistry is far in the lead, with a total of 244 doctorates granted. Zoology is next, with 71. At the bottom of the list are meteorology, with 0, paleontology, with 1, and anthropology, with 2. Physics, thought by many to be chemistry's closest rival, in reality claimed only 56 devotees.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON FLOWERS AND THEIR WAYS

Why are Flowers of Different Hues, What is Nature's Most Popular Color? What Percentage Bloom at Night, What is the Best Color Display for Garden or Bouquet and What is the Language of Flowers?

The following is taken from one of Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly's recent lectures upon "Flowers and Their Ways" particularly appropriate at this season of the year.

Dr. Vizetelly who is managing editor of our New Standard Dictionary has devoted thirty-five years to the editing of dictionaries besides being associate editor of several encyclopedias.

Why are some roses red and others pink, orange, yellow or white? Because the cell-sap contains a pigment which, when dissolved by the sap, produces the color of the flower.

Why are flowers of different colors? Because each flower contains a pigment which is either dissolved in the cell-sap or held in the chromoplasts. The blue, purple, and violet are the result of various chemically related substances in solution commonly called anthocyanin; the orange, the red and yellow are due to carotin or some of its derivatives. Other groups of pigments may be found in some flowers.

Also the colors of flowers are very numerous and of many hues and shades, yet it is possible to segregate them into two groups, the blue and the yellow, and that with each of these one may find red and white.

In an average collection of 1,000 plants, 284 were found to have white flowers, 226 yellow, 220 red, 141 blue, 73 violet, 36 green, 12 orange, 4 brown and 2 black. Of these, the white flowered plants emitted the most fragrant perfume and it was noted that the perfume of the red flower was more pleasing than that of the yellow.

The coloring of flowers has been found to be intimately connected with the alternations of the seasons. In some parts of the world certain outdoor plants show an increase in blossom from December to July. The white flowers exceed in number all the rest during the entire period of the year when plants are in blossom. Following the white come the yellow, then the orange, the blue, the violet, the green, and, lastly, the indigo, which are the most uncommon.

The flowering of plants is closely connected with the mean temperature, but occasionally anomalies are produced which change of temperature cannot explain. It is somewhat striking that there is a rapid decrease in the number of flowering plants from the end of July to that of August.

In the month of January, when all flowers are white to the vernal equinox, the number increases till the middle of May, and then noticeably decreases until the frosts arrest all vegetation. Setting aside the small number of yellow flowers that appear in February and March, the proportion of flowers of that color increases from the beginning of April until the end of June. It remains stationary until the middle of August, after which time it increases again until the frosts come.

The proportional number of red flowers gradually diminishes from February to the end of April, then proceeds on an ascending scale until the end of August, after which it decreases until October. From then on it rises until November is reached, when most of the cultivated flowers are red.

Green or greenish flowers diminish from March until the end of May, and after this the proportion is about uniformly maintained until winter sets in. Blue flowers increase in number to the middle of April, but decrease with the summer solstice then rise again to the number attained in April, only to decrease rapidly and cease totally on the appearance of Jack Frost.

The other colors have not been found to be regular enough to allow of the citing of a rule for them. It is curious to note, however, that each color rises twice and decreases twice. Whenever the white flowers increase, the yellow decrease, and vice versa. The red and the green always correspond as do the blue and the violet flowers. These remarks of mine apply to species rather than to individuals.

The number of plants that open their corolla during the night is very small compared with those that blossom during the day and is only about twelve per cent.

Has it ever occurred to you that it may be advantageous to arrange the flowers in your garden systematically? The subject of such an arrangement has already received the attention of scientists who recommend that blue flowers be placed next to orange; that violet should be arranged next to yellow, and that red and pink flowers are always seen to best advantage when surrounded by verdure or by white flowers. White plants may be displayed to advantage among groups of blue and orange or violet and yellow flowers.

But after all, nothing is more beautiful than the old-fashioned country garden in which flowers grow in a riot of color that gladdens the heart and awakens within us paeans of praise to the glory of our Maker.

The different parts of flowers sometimes change color during the life of the blossom, and there is a small species of forget-me-not which grows as a common weed in the gardens, the flowers of which are sulfur yellow when they first open, but later turn blue. The petals of the hand-flower when they first expand are yellow and later turn to orange, red, and finally purple. The flowers of the hydrangea vary. Some are at first green, then blue or rose color, but certain states have selected flow-ers of their own, Colorado having selected the white and blue columbines, Iowa the wild rose, Michigan the apple blossom, Maine the pine tassel and cone, Montana the bitterroot, Nebraska the goldenrod, Oklahoma the mistletoe, Oregon a native grape, and Vermont the red clover.

Mexico favors the cactus, and across the Sea the cherry blossom is the emblem of China, while the chrysanthemum is the native flower of Japan. The lotus finds favor in the soil, and varieties of the same Egypt and in India; the blue corn-flower have produced diversity of color when the soil in which they have been cultivated has been changed. Plants are seldom motionless. As you know, the wind wafts the seed of the dandelion, even as the waves bear the nut of the coco-palm. Some plants attach themselves to particular races. The common plantain, for instance, was once called by the Amerinds the white man's footstep.

Currents of air carry seeds the world over. To verify this statement a German philosopher named Unger took several plates of glass which he cleaned carefully and placed them between the almost air-tight double sashes that protected his study from the rigors of a northern climate. Six months later he took them out and thru a microscope examined the dust that had fallen on them thru imperceptible cracks and crevices. In this apparently inorganic dust he found the pollen of eight distinct plants, the seeds of eleven varieties of fungus, the eggs of four higher infusoria and a living organism of one genus.

Seeds are shed every year upon the surface of the earth in countless myriads, but so many are the enemies that they encounter that scarcely one is to be found in the season that follows. A large proportion may germinate immediately or as soon as the heat of the season is sufficient to excite them, but most of these perish in infancy, starved by the climate or by want of proper nourishment, starved by the surrounding vegetation, or devoured by animals. A greater number still are destroyed in the seed state by insects, birds or other animals. Some rot from the humidity of the soil; others lose their vitality thru slight fermentation in the albumen or the cotyledons, and to all these causes of death seeds enclosed in the earth are particularly exposed.

The Standard dictionary tells us that mummy-wheat, or Pharaoh's corn, is so called because it was believed to have been produced from seeds found in mummy-cases, but the fallacy of the best authenticated stories on this subject is now generally admitted.

At one time raspberries were said to have been grown from seeds found among the human remains buried in Cornish Barrows in England. This was due to the sudden appearance of plants in a region where they were never known before, but the growth was never satisfactorily explained. The hypothesis of the investigators was based on the claim that the seed, having preserved a dormant life for an unheard of period of time, was suddenly freed, and germination promptly followed. The tending of flowers is a fitting care for the young and the beautiful, for then they dwell among their own emblems, and many a voice of wisdom breathes on their ear from the beautiful blossoms, for a taste for flowers and a love for the beautiful as exhibited in the wonders of nature are evidences of a refined and sensitive being.

Yes, flowers have a language, and some people take great pleasure in finding the hidden meaning, if it be hidden. The rose and the myrtle are a confession of love; the white carnation, a sign of disdain; the ivy is a symbol of perpetual friendship; the heliotrope, a declaration of devotion; but the rose has more than this meaning. It is the symbol of majesty, the emblem of love and beauty, and different colors signify different things.

For instance, the white rose of York and the red rose of Lancaster have, since the Wars of the Roses, been symbols of peace and strife among the English. The lily is the emblem of purity, while the violet, from the fact that it grows often in seclusion, is the symbol of modesty. The primrose is the flower of youth, the forget-me-not that of true love, the rosemary that of remembrance, and the wallflower, love faithful in adversity or fidelity in misfortune.

The pansy for thought is better garden in which flowers grow in a known than the hyacinth for sorrow, and beware of the woman who favors the narcissus, for that is the symbol of self-admiration. White heather betokens good fortune to come; red heather, solitude. The red poppy is the symbol of consolation, but the white poppy that of forgetfulness.

It has been claimed that no flower of the United States, perhaps because no flower yet produced has measured up to the expectations of our people. Efforts to obtain the popular view of this subject favored the goldenrod, but certain states have selected flowers of their own, Colorado having selected the white and blue columbines, Iowa the wild rose, Michigan the apple blossom, Maine the pine tassel and cone, Montana the bitterroot, Nebraska the goldenrod, Oklahoma the mistletoe, Oregon a native grape, and Vermont the red clover. Mexico favors the cactus, and across the Sea the cherry blossom is the emblem of China, while the chrysanthemum is the native flower of Japan. Painting by Titian

Found in Berlin Shop

After remaining for an incalculable number of years nameless and covered with grime, an apparently genuine Titian has been turned up in, an antique shop in Berlin.

The subject—one that Titian painted more than once—is "Venus, Cupid and the Organ Player," and, though the Venus is evidently an idealized figure, the organist has been identified as the youthful Philip, later Philip II of Spain, and the Cupid as one of Titian's own infant sons.

Philip met Titian at Milan in 1548 and again at Augsburg two years later, and so might have sat for the likeness. The painting, after treatment, proved to be in almost perfect preservation, and the blue of the sky in the background is exceptionally intense.—The Living Age.

Scraps of HumorEMBARRASSING

Wills—How do you like the combination furniture they have in some of these New York flats?

Gillis—Not at all. I went to bed in a piece of that kind of junk the other night at a friend's house and when I woke up, two women were serving breakfast on the foot-board, a fellow was signing checks on the head-board and another fellow was underneath the bed making coffee.

Extra Business

When the Plunk Center pharmacy opened the boss hung up a sign:

An additional sale a day keeps the sheriff away.

An hour later he said to his chief clerk: "That gent bought a postage stamp. Couldn't you interest him in something else?"

"Oh, yes, I induced him to have a look at our directory."

Pa Took the Air

"Father, freight is goods that are sent by water or land, isn't it?"

"That's right, son."

"Well, then, why is it that the freight that goes by ship is called a cargo, and when it goes by car it is called a shipment?"

And then Johnny wondered why father put on his hat and sauntered outside to get the air.—Edison Topics

The Worse the Better

"It's an old saying that the better the wares the greater the sale."

"Yes," was the reply, "but it's the other way round in my business. The worse the article the more they are used."

"What do you sell?"

"Matches."

ON THE JOB

"That machinist is the most thorough man of his trade I know."

"What makes you think so?"

"He not only works all day, but bolts his food at meals, rivets everybody's attention and hammers every new idea advanced."

The Limit

The tightest man of all I know. Goes to church by radio. Thinks the hymns and sermon great. But tunes out while they pass the plate.

The Outcome to Govern

First Luncher—Let's match for the cats.

Second Ditto—All right. Where shall we dine?

First—Let's match first.

Too Late

"I've come," said the woman politician, "to ask you to support me."

"I'm sorry, miss," replied the man, "but you're too late. I've been married for years."

The Prescription

Daughter—What did the specialist say about auntie's frightful attack of kleptomania?

Mother—He said she must take things more quietly in the future.

Engaged

Caller—I would like a few words with your master?

Maid—Yes, sir. Would you mind waiting until missus has had hers?

A DISCOVERY

Professor Bug—Gracious, that must be the great wall of China!

The Dancing Leagues

I stand entranced and watch the leaves gyrating on a vacant lot. What dizzy spirals each one weaves! They dance the charleston, like as not.

Night Ride

"Have you heard that Mrs. Fisher walks in her sleep?"

"How perfectly absurd—when they have three cars."

FRANK RISLER WHO KILLED DRY RAIDER

John McCoy Has Sympathy of Large Number of Friends Who Will Fight For His Liberty.

Steubenville, April 30.—(UP.)

—Frank Risler, 52-year-old tin-smith who shot and killed John C. McCoy, veteran county dry raider, at Toronto, near here, will fight for vindication and will be supported by a majority of the citizens of Toronto, it was declared today.

Shortly after this announcement, a citizens' committee was formed for the purpose of raising a fund to defend Risler who said he killed McCoy when he found the raider and fellow-officers searching his home.

"I didn't know they were dry raiders," Risler declared. "They had no search warrant and refused to identify themselves when I asked them to. So I shot."

Risler was arraigned this morning and was remanded to jail to await action of the grand jury. He admits the killing but denied he shot McCoy because the latter was a prohibition agent.

Risler and his friends have retained two prominent Steubenville attorneys, Ralph B. Cohen and John D. Gardner, and the fight for vindication, Risler says, will begin at once.

Police assert McCoy and his comrades were armed with a search warrant when they raided Risler's home. Risler will attempt to obtain his release on bond, his attorneys said.

VIRGINIA SUPREME COURT RULING

Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Merger With Nickel Plate

Richmond, Va., April 30.—

(UP.)—The court battle of Chesapeake & Ohio minority stockholders to prevent their railroad going into the proposed Nickel Plate merger which has since been disapproved by the I. C. C. and dissolved, was lost here today.

The Virginia supreme court of appeals denied the minority an appeal from the ruling of Chancery Court Judge Moncure that the railroad had power to lease its properties, rights and franchises. Moncure refused to enjoin the railroad from leasing its properties to the Van Swearingen Nickel Plate system, as proposed in the merger for a term of 999 years.

TWO KILLED IN AIR-PLANE ACCIDENT

Jacksonville, Fla., April 30.—

(UP.)—An airplane falling 2,000 feet brought death to Wm. D. Wills, 24, of Dallas, Texas, and Bessie Coleman, negro aviatrix here today.

The pair was to have given an exhibition at the Fair Grounds here tomorrow.

The negress was instantly killed and Wills, who survived the crash although badly injured, was cremated when a spectator lit a match near the wreck, the flames enveloping the smashed plane, making it impossible to reach Wills' body.

Hessians in America

Of the 29,867 Hessians that came to America during the Revolutionary war only 17,313 returned to Germany. Of these remaining, 548 were killed, and some of the 1,652 wounded died. Some also disappeared, but a great number are known to have remained and settled; grants were given them in Nova Scotia, but many scattered to different parts of the country.

LOANS UP TO $500.00.

A popular loan of $100 under the City Loan plan can be paid back in payments of $7 a month, and the price of a package of chewing gum a day will more than pay the total day will more than pay the total carrying charge.

This is a fair sample of the character of service rendered by The City Loan, and proves beyond a doubt the moderation that has made our institution popular with so many thousands of people.

Another important thing is the fact that every loan is made on your own security, without asking relatives or friends to sign your note. And a good credit once established can be used time and again as needed, for almost any personal reason desired. The City Loan is a safe and worthy place to establish your credit for future usage.

MORE MAD DOGS AND DOMESTIC

Animals Afflicted With Rabies—Several Dogs and Sheep Killed.

Dr. Geo. W. Heffner, Health Commissioner of Pickaway County, reports that several dogs and three sheep afflicted with rabies, have been killed in this city and immediate vicinity within the past week.

One of the dogs belonged to Harley Rutter who resides in East Ohio street, this animal was shot by Harley Moore, deputy sheriff yesterday. The animal showed unmistakable signs of the disease although nothing is known of the dog's actions or where it might have been in the meantime.

Thursday a mad dog was killed in Tarlton; one hundred men were on the trail of the animal before it was finally rounded up and shot.

Charles Bell of this city, who owns a farm in Circleville township, northeast of here, had three sheep develop the dread disease Friday. Dr. Rooney of this city, had been called to vaccinate the bell stock and the sheep forced him to climb upon a shed for protection.

People of the city and county who own dogs must exercise extreme care until this epidemic is eradicated.

It is an expensive luxury for the commissioners to settle the claim of farmers for domestic animals suffering from the disease that must be killed.

An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Thursday at one o'clock, Mrs. Price Ashbrook and Mrs. James R. Tootle delightfully entertained at the home of the former near Yellowbud, in Ross county, thirty-five ladies to a very elaborate luncheon in honor of the birthday anniversary of their mother, Mrs. Fred Lutz.

The beautiful home of Mrs. Ashbrook never looked prettier than in its decorations of Spring flowers which were used profusely throughout the house. The color scheme of pink and white which is so easily carried out in the decorations at this time of the year, made the festal boards appear like a beautiful Spring scene and the place cards in the same colors with butterflies mounted thereon gave the impression of a garden party. The two long tables at which the delicious four course luncheon was served were placed one in the dining room and one in the back living room and were centered by great bowls of Spring flowers in which pink and white vied with the greenery. The favors were pink rosebuds.

The guest list included friends from Chillicothe, Kingston, Columbus, Mt. Sterling and these ladies from this city: Mrs. I. F. Boggs, Misses Martha and Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. Leslie May, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck and Mrs. Henry Mader.

Wooden Lightning Rod Used a Century Ago

A picture, showing a village "protected" by wooden lightning rods, is printed in a curious work published by one Lapostolle at Amiens, France, in 1820. The rods are pointed, and from the end of each a straw rope runs down to the ground. The author recommends these rods as being far less expensive than the metallic lightning rods of Franklin.

The same book advocates the use of similar rods for protection against hail. A few of these can be seen in the fields and on the hills in the background of the picture. Of course, the merits of these wooden lightning rods, as well as of any kind of hail rods, were wholly nonsensical, though hail rods of this same variety were once installed on an extensive scale in Europe.—Exchange.

Indignant Pig Bites
A sow, weighing 640 pounds, had been brought into the ring to be sold, when it suddenly charged up the three steps of the rostrum, smashed the door and tore down the seat on which the auctioneer and his clerk were sitting.
It seized the auctioneer's clothes and tore the skin from his leg. The auctioneer jumped over the front of the box into the ring and his clerk jumped after him.
It took several men ten minutes to remove the pig from the rostrum.

All join hand and circle to the left; A little more pie and a little more dough,

To the ladies that meet you, doe se doe, Shake a leg, mister, and hold her tight, Shake a leg, sister, you make a fine sight,

Now all join hands and circle to the right,

Do an allamand left and a double sashay,

Let the boys be funny and the girls be gay.

Balance all and grand right and left,

Now swing your partner high in the air,

But no kissin' goes—you know it ain't fair!

Here's to the lady that is so sweet,

Here's to the boy with the great big feet,

Here's to the man with the Roman nose,

Licketty-split and away she goes!

Ladies in the center and dance all around,

Gosh! Ain't it hard to keep feet on the ground?

Now if sorrow in the grave has been laid,

All take it easy and then promenade.

Don't forget the old-fashioned dance at the C. A. C. Gym Thursday night, May 6.

PURE FOOD MAKES IMPORTANT GAINS

Salmon, Sardines and Butter Improved, Shows Agricultural Department.

Washington. — Among the various food industries in which the enforcement of the Food and Drugs act has brought about noticeably improved conditions during the past year, Dr. C. A. Browne, chief of the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, cites the salmon canning industry, the butter industry and the sardine packing industry.

The bad situation which formerly existed in the salmon canning industry as the result of a few canners persistently putting up decomposed fish has been cleared up to a considerable extent this past year. According to Doctor Browne, this progress was made easier by the fact that nearly all of the cases against violators ultimately resulted in verdicts for the government.

This has demonstrated to those packers who are not disposed through a sense of decency to put up a sound and wholesome pack that it is necessary for them to do so in order to comply with the law. In its campaign the bureau has had the whole-hearted support of the better element of the industry, which through pressure on offending members has assisted in the process of reform.

Better Butter.

Sampling and examination of shipments of butter undertaken during the months of maximum production and greatest traffic resulted in the seizure by orders of the courts of 188 shipments which were not in compliance with the legal standard for butter or were short in weight. In addition 85 cases were developed for prosecution in the courts. This increase in the number of seizures effected over those reported for 1924 does not indicate necessarily that there was a proportionately larger output of low-fat butter, but is thought to be due to perfected control measures and to the fact that the output of many creameries which had not been subjected to surveillance during former years was inspected.

Another industry which, according to Doctor Browne, has shown a very material improvement is the sardine packing industry of Maine. It has been the practice over a period of years to can sardines which have undergone a species of decomposition resulting in what is known as a "belly-blown" condition. Canned fish of this type are classed as adulterated under the Food and Drugs act.

As a combined result of seizures of decomposed sardines and of extensive educational work among the packers over a number of years the pack this season is more nearly free from this and other types of objectionable fish than in any past season during which supervision has been maintained.

Action was taken by the food officials to prevent the shipment into interstate commerce of California oranges rendered unfit for food by a disastrous freeze.

Improvement was brought about in the canning of blueberries in Maine through the use of an apparatus devised by the food officials for removing unsound berries.

A marked reduction in the proportion of rots and spots included in shipments of shell eggs was also noted during the year.

1,656 Court Actions.

Altogether 1,656 court actions were instituted during the past year. They included, in addition to those mentioned, cases based upon adulteration or misbranding of such commodities as alimentary paste, apple butter, baked products, baking powder, beverages, coffee, colors, confectionery, buttermilk, cheese, drugs, frozen eggs, feeds, shellfish, flavoring extracts, flour, fresh, canned and dried fruits, jellies, maple sugar, corn meal, powdered milk, nuts, oils, oleomargarine, rice, sauce, sirups, soups, spices and condiments, tea, canned and fresh vegetables, vinegar and water. More than 14,000 cases have been terminated in federal courts since the enactment of the Food and Drugs act.

Although much improvement is brought about through prosecution of violators, the bureau regards the law as a corrective rather than a punitive measure. The specialists of the bureau assist manufacturers and others in obtaining information that will enable them to so conduct their processes of manufacturing, packing, storing and shipping that their products will meet the requirements of the law.

The extensive information developed by their researches on the composition, methods of manufacture, and wholesomeness of various foods is made available to all who desire to improve their processes or the quality of their products. Information also is furnished regarding the labeling requirements in order that each manufacturer may devise truthful and informing labels for his products.

AUTO CAUGHT FIRE.

An auto belonging to a colored man named Crawford and hailing from Columbus, caught fire on Town street near Court Sunday evening at 10:50 o'clock and was badly damaged before the department arrived.

The machine caught fire when the gasoline feed came in contact with a match. The car was damaged to the extent of from $75 to $100 and was taken to Columbus for repairs.

The alarm was sounded from box 52 by employes of the Shaner Oil Filling station on South Court street.

Wisconsin Town Saved From Flood by Sandbags

After an all-night fight, residents of Portage, Wis., succeeded in blocking a break in the wall of a canal between the Fox and Wisconsin rivers, and saved the town from an imminent flood. The high waters forced down seventy-five feet of the wall, and weakened the gates at the Wisconsin river end of the canal. Citizens filled the gap with granite and sandbags.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Cleves--Authorities today were investigating the cause of fire which destroyed the public school building here Sunday with an estimated loss of $35,000.

Toledo--An inquest was held today into the death of Elmer Wheeler, 40, of Toledo, who was burned to death when fire destroyed a barn here. Wheeler's body was identified by his two brothers.

Springfield--Three Ohioans, Erwin S. Spees, of Wapakoneta, Herbert T. Neve, of Springfield and Emery R. Yohe, of Carey, were among nine young ministers graduated from Hamma Divinity school of Wittenberg here.

Canton--A charge of first degree murder was lodged today against Tony Horvith, who has confessed, according to police that he shot and killed John Kovacs Jr., 23, his landlord, during a quarrel.

Cleveland--The first Cleveland swimming victim so far this year was George Balmer, 13, who was seized with cramps and drowned within the Edgewater breakwater Sunday.

Cincinnati--Benjamin Tannebeck, who lives in a shanty boat at Melbourne, Kentucky, was charged with murder today following the shooting of Paul Herzog, 26, at a camp near Melbourne. The two quarreled, according to police.

Georgetown--Fire of undetermined origin swept the entire business block here today, causing damage tentatively estimated at $125,000.

The blaze first was discovered in a bakeshop. Fanned by a high wind, it spread to adjoining structures and soon five buildings including the Methodist church had been razed.

MISS KATE PEDRICK DEAD.

Miss Kate Pedrick died at the Pauline Home in Columbus Sunday evening, in her 89th year.

She was born in this city, January 23, 1838, a daughter of Thomas and Mary Keffer Pedrick and was a cousin of Mrs. Samuel C. Gamble and Misses Alice and Jennie Pedrick, of this city. The funeral services will be held in Columbus Tuesday. Interment in Forest cemetery.

BRONZE MEDAL AWARDED FOR DECLAMATION

Miss Garnet Van Buskirk Was Winner in the Contest at Methodist Church.

Miss Garnet Van Buskirk was adjudged the winner of the Prince of Peace Declaration contest held at the First Methodist church Sunday evening and received the bronze medal awarded by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The winner of this contest will represent the church in the county silver medal contest to be held on or before May 16. Silver medal winners of each congressional district will compete later for a gold medal and district champions of the entire state will meet in Columbus June 23 to compete for the three cash prizes of $500, $300 and $200, each of which will be accompanied by a free tuition college scholarship.

Miss Van Buskirk delivered the declamation "The March of the Dead" written by J. H. Dickason, as one of 20 selections published for use in the Prince of Peace contest by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Judges in the contest were Mr. Meeker Terwilliger, Miss Flora Dunlap and Propessor A. F. Cameron. The attendance was 117.

The winner is a member of the sophomore class at Circleville high school and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Van Buskirk of 354 East Union street.

Other contestants were Lucile Hegele, Herma Laughlin, Katherine Hegele and Kenneth Ulm.

GRADUATES IN JUNE.

Paul Hampp, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hampp, of Barberton, formerly of this city, who was the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Hampp, has returned home. Mr. Hampp will graduate in June from the Akron university in industrial engineering.

Columbus--A second letter in which he urges the calling of a special session of the legislature to amend the road tax laws, has been sent to Governor Vic Donahey by Congressman Charles Brand, of Urbana.

AUTOMOBILE DEATH TOLL IS ALARMING

Columbus--The death toll of automobile accidents is almost as great as that taken by contagious diseases, the state registrar of vital statistics announced today.

In January, the registrar asserted, there were 75 traffic fatalities, fourteen of them grade-crossing accidents and two interurban crashes. In the same month deaths from contagious diseases numbered 124, only 49 more than the traffic toll.

B. F. Benford was a business visitor in Columbus today.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken From the Records of the Various County Offices.

The court of appeals, with Judge Roscoe Mauck, of Gallipolis, presiding, and Judges Edwin D. Sayre, of Athens, and W. H. Middleton, of Waverly, associates in session last week affirmed the decisions of the lower courts in two cases and reversed one.

In the case of the State, on the complaint of the board of education of Pickaway township rural school district of Pickaway county, on error, against George Steely and others defendants, the court reversed the findings of the probate and common pleas courts.

Suit was brought in the probate court to recover a certificate of deposit amounting to $25,000 given by Nelson Hitler to Jessie Steely.

The probate court held that the time had elapsed in which to bring the suit, the case was prosecuted to the common pleas and the judgment of the probate court was sustained.

The court of appeals reversed both the lower courts and held that the action was not barred by the statute of limitations and that the plaintiffs were within their legal rights in the bringing of the suit.

Barton Walters and C. A. Leist represent the plaintiffs and Judge Charles Dresbach is attorney for the defendants.

In the case of Maxwell Snyder against the State of Ohio, on error, the plaintiff was convicted in the common pleas court of perjury and this was affirmed.

C. C. Clouse and I. F. Snyder represented the plaintiff in error and Prosecuting Attorney Meeker Terwilliger represented the state.

In the case of William H. Orebaugh against Charles Rager, on error, the jury in the court below allowed Rager $607.79 in an accounting and this was affirmed.

August W. Weber and George G. Adkins represented the plaintiff and Harry Miller and I. F. Snyder were attorneys for the defendant.

DECISION IN GAS INCREASE IS EXPECTED

Columbus, O., May 3, (UP)--Barring unforeseen developments, the state supreme court tomorrow will hand down a decision as to whether the second rate increase of the Logan Gas company will be expunged from the files of the public utilities commission.

The court's decision is scheduled on a writ of error filed by the company. The writ deposes the action of the commission in "attempting to strike the rate schedule from the files" and demands its reinstatement.

The disputed increase is now being collected under bond. If the court sustains the gas company, this procedure will continue. If the utilities commission is sustained, the company will be required to rebate the collections, it was declared.

Disinfection of Stables Urgent

Of Great Importance Following Outbreak of Some Contagious Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The importance of disinfecting the premises following an outbreak of some contagious disease is not fully appreciated by the average stockman and farmer, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, this conclusion being based upon the experience of the bureau of animal industry of the department in dealing with infectious diseases of live stock. Disease germs, unless destroyed, have the power to maintain themselves in definitely on the premises, insanitary stables in particular being a favorite rendezvous. Their presence is a serious menace to the health and life of farm animals housed in such places and an epizootic of some infectious disease may at any time break out. In the disinfection of stables there are three essentials, namely, proper preparation of the building to facilitate reaching organism of disease, an effective disinfectant, and a method of applying the disinfectant that will assure thorough contact with the bacteria.

Clean Out Trash.
In the preparation of the building see that all cobwebs, dust, etc., are cleaned from the ceilings, partitions, doors, and floors, and remove all refuse including manure from the stable and barnyard to a place inaccessible to live stock. Such refuse should then be burned or treated with a solution of chloride of lime diluted with water in the proportion of six ounces chloride of lime to one gallon of water. In the case of an earth floor that has become contaminated for some depth, remove four inches or more of the surface soil, treating it with the same disinfectant as suggested for refuse and manure. Replace this layer of dirt with soil from an uncontaminated source or, better still, lay a floor of concrete, the most durable and sanitary material for a stable floor. Any woodwork that has become softened or that is so porous as to be a good medium for absorption of disease germs should be removed, burned, and replaced with new material.

It is highly important that the disinfectant used be effective. One of the best disinfectants is a mixture in the proportion of four ounces of a compound solution of cresol (a coal tar product) to one gallon of water. More detailed information relative to disinfectants and their use on the farm may be obtained from state agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Applying Disinfectant.
The best method of applying the disinfectant is by means of a strong spray pump, although where the surface to be treated is limited a white wash brush may be used. The pump should be equipped with not less than 15 feet of hose, there being attached to the hose a five-foot section of iron pipe of the same caliber with a spraying nozzle at one end.

Legumes Check Erosion by Heavy Root System

Legume crops may check soil erosion in three ways: (1) by furnishing a cover crop, (2) by the addition of a comparatively large amount of organic matter to the soil, and (3) by a heavy root system which tends to hold the soil, according to A. H. Karraker of the agronomy department, college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Any legume may serve as a cover crop, but some legumes are especially adapted to forming a cover crop which will, to a large extent, prevent erosion on hill lands. Clovers such as red, siske, mammoth, sweet and alfalfa make excellent cover crops. These cover and protect the land during the seasons when erosion is most likely to occur. These legumes are especially valuable in preventing sheet washing.

The above named legumes may be handled in such a way that they will add a large amount of organic matter to the soil and this in turn will help cut down the possibilities of erosion. The organic matter in the soil tends to absorb the water and in this way cuts down the volume of runoff. The organic matter also enriches the soil and reduces the hazard in growing cover crops.

The root systems of the legume crops play a big part in checking erosion. The roots hold the soil particles together, make the soil more retentive of moisture and add organic matter directly to the soil. The heavy root systems of sweet clover and alfalfa are well adapted to this function.

No Cure or Prevention of Dreaded Hog Cholera

No drug or combination of drugs is known that will cure or prevent hog cholera, says the United States Department of Agriculture, although some of the so-called "tonics" for hogs may have merits as condition powders for the general health of the animals. Many preparations put on the market from time to time have, in tests by federal and state institutions, been proven worthless in preventing or curing hog cholera. The only dependable agent for the prevention of this disease is the antihog-cholera serum prepared according to the methods originally worked out by the federal bureau of animal industry.

Colorful Blouses Worn With Sedate Tailleurs

There is nothing sadder about the newly arrived tailored suit for spring, even when it appears in the popular black or navy. A gay silk blouse lends it a vivid color note. Here is one of peach damask with collar and cuffs of silver cloth.

Glove Silk Lingerie Is on Spring Fashion Card
Glove silk lingerie has wedged its way to the fore. The new spring models cover every type and style of garment desired, from the simply tailored sets to the very lacy ones for evening.
A two-piece set consisting of a step-in and vest is very practical. It has two new features; the fitted waistband on the step-in and the fitted effect of the bodice part of the vest, eliminating the necessity for a drawstring. The new waistband is about three inches in width. It permits the garment to fit snugly about the hips. It is also made to button either at the hips or in front, and its fullness is achieved by tiny plaits or deep shirings stitched in a smock-like fashion. Vests with their fitted bodices and fancy-cut tops are worn outside the step-ins.
Military or tailored sets have, for decoration, bindings of the same silk in contrasting colors. These also have the fitted tops and are cut very deep under the arms. Another set has hem-stitched ruffles, with colored pipings to finish the step-ins and the vest, thereby carrying out the idea of a molded figure. For evening sets, lace insertions and dyed net are quite extensively used. In these garments the fitted bodice top is very effective. The low-cut front and back in the "V" shape are seen. White and all the pastel shades of lavender, flesh, peach, green and maize are used.
Pajamas, sleeveless affairs, are of dainty silk, satin or other materials, decorated with dainty hand-embroidery in either the same or of a contrasting color.
For basic slenderness choose a costume slip with slim lines. Select a radium habit or glove silk or silk jersey, whatever you prefer. Also make a shadow hem. Ribbon straps are used, also a piece of wide lace insertion as yoke and above hem of the skirt. Dainty embroidery decorates the center front.

Hint of Summertime in Winsome Horsehair Hat
A delicious hint of summertime is given in a white horsehair hat with very wide brim, slightly drooping, and high square crown. It has one large pink feather rose with leaves and long stem fastened across the front of the crown. This hat was made to wear with a simple white crepe de chine gown at Palm Beach. One of the same sort is pale yellow straw with a cluster of jonquils and stiff slender leaves painted directly on the front of the crown. A large, loosely arranged cluster of roses in delicate pink and tea shades is painted with fine lines of gilt on a hat of pale pink horsehair, touched off quaintly with a narrow black velvet ribbon circling the crown. Some dainty, dressy hats of tulle and lace are among the French novelties. One dashing model is in black chantilly lace frilled and wired to stand erect around a crown of silver tissue. This is worn with a frock of silver gray taffeta with a shoulder cape of black chantilly finely plaited.

Variety Marks Popular Two-Piece Jumper Frock
Each week brings further proof that the ingenuity and cleverness of designers in creating new versions of the popular two-piece jumper frock have not been exhausted. So generally becoming are these costumes and so youthful and smart that it will probably be some time before they pass out of the fashion picture.
Among the latest models to be brought out are those fashioned of shantung or rajah silks. They are on an equality and come in such a wide range of colors that they are adapted both to street frocks and to the colorful models designed for sports and country wear.
Taffeta also has found its way into the realm of the jumper dress and is used for several of the most attractive models shown this season.

Black and White
Black and white continue to form an effective alliance, especially as they appeared in a new version, which consisted of a frock of white taffeta flounced with black lace and sashed with coral velvet ribbon tied in an enormous bow on one hip.

Ancient Dicing Games

The invention of dice is mythically ascribed to Palamedes of Greece about the year 1241 B. C. The game of tali among the Romans was played with dice. The early English antiquary, Stow, mentions two entertainments given by the city of London at which dice were played.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"Why Men Leave Home," the smashing comedy success by Avery Hopwood, that most successful playwright, has been chosen for the week play to be presented by the Hartman Stock company May 3, under the direction of John Hayden. Many metropolitan critics have claimed that this is Mr. Hopwood's best play, and when you take into consideration that he was also responsible for "The Bat" and many other successes, this belief certainly bespeaks much for this latest play, "Why Men Leave Home." It is also claimed that Mr. Hopwood has tapped a virgin theme in the theater. He has hit upon a topic so vital and so universal that every playwright has reason to chide himself that he or she had not thought of it. At the same time Mr. Hopwood has brilliantly evolved a story of beauty and as brimful of good cheer and laughs as any play bearing his name. To divulge the story of the play would be to deprive you of a real thrill for it is most unusual and diverting in plot. That "Why Men Leave Home" sprang into instant favor with the New York theater-going public is not difficult to understand. The newspaper reviewers were more than enthusiastic in their praise of the play.

Jean Ford and Donn Cook will have excellent roles as will Georgia Neese, Martha Lee Manners, John Lott, Neil McFee and other members of the company, including William Ingersoll, Gilberta Faust, Forrest Orr.

The production will be complete in every way, as John Hayden, the director, saw the play produced in New York and has duplicated the sets, electrical effects and properties. Mr. Hayden's excellent direction of "Enchanted April," last week, with its beautiful setting, should be proof enough that Columbus will have the best in the future.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer. They will play your favorite piece if you request it.

Matinees Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays. Out of town reservations will be taken care of.

AMUSEMENTS

William de Mille, whose latest Paramount production, "The Splendid Crime," at the Metropolitan theater, has every reason to feel pleased with his newest effort. It is a human and humorous little picture that stirs the emotions pleasantly. Mr. de Mille really deserves a double-barreled salvo of applause for he not only directed the photoplay, but wrote the story as well.

Bebe Daniels is the bright, shining star of this snappy, fun-filled comedy-drama, which deals with the experiences of a lovable little girl thief before and after she reforms. Having naively decided that "housebreaking ain't no work for a lady," Bebe considers the idea of going straight, but is persuaded by her two crook companions, one of whom is her foster father, to pull off just one more job.

This last job proves the turning point of her career, for she is caught by the youthful millionaire owner of the house she attempts to rob. Instead of handing her over to the police, he induces her to reform and lets her go. From that point the action is crowded with surprising developments that take an unexpected turn when Bebe commits "the splendid crime" to save the man she loves from turning crooked.

Bebe's admirers are sure to enjoy her performance as the ragged little Raffles. It is a part that suits her to the proverbial "T," and she plays it with intelligence and refreshing sincerity. Neil Hamilton is the gay society youth, who becomes Bebe's romantic ideal and for whom she makes the final sacrifice. Anne Cornwall and Anthony Jovitt are the other two principal players who do good work.

Loray, "The Girl With a Double Vision," will be at the Grand Opera house tonight.

Loray, marvel of the psychic, has astounded thousands of hearers by her remarkable demonstrations of occult science. This clever young mystic has a wonderfully pleasing personality and while she answers the hundreds of questions of personal and private nature, the occult powers of this wise young lady is never at fault.

It is almost impossible to believe that the ordinary mortal could perform the mysterious and bewildering things that she does. Questions dealing with love, business and purely personal matters are all answered rapidly and with surprising and amazing accuracy by her.

There are very few, if any, mind-readers on the vaudeville stage today, that answer questions so rapidly as Loray does. This gifted young lady is bringing a message to the people and is doing rare work in aiding thousands by her psychic information and advice that might be termed as of the uncanny sort.

Loray is the youngest and one of the best psychic sensations now touring vaudeville.

Does Work of Many Men

From the South Sea Islands every year hundreds of tons of copra (dried meat of the coconut) are unloaded at San Francisco. A giant "vacuum cleaner" recently installed performs the work of unloading, taking the place of a crew of twenty-five men. It unloads thirty to forty tons an hour. With it three men can do the entire job.

The Brainy Bee

The following incident testifies to the remarkable sagacity and efficiency of bees: A hive was being "spied upon" by a wasp. When wasps ascertain a hive is worth attacking they often succeed in ousting the bees. Every time the wasp approached the small entrance hole a bee came out. An hour later the wasp was dead.

It could hardly be called that. Yet, many a time it has been said that it is a crime to let shoes go too long before having them resoled.

DEMAND FOR A GRAND JURY QUIZ

Chicago, May 1.—(UP.)—Demand for a grand jury quiz of the crime situation which since prohibition has resulted in 92 persons being killed in beer battles between the Irish and Italians—came after Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin, and two beer runners—Jimmy Doherty and Tom Duffy—were killed Tuesday night.

The three were murdered when gangsters, using a machine gun capable of 1,500 shots a minute, rained a barrage on Madigan's west end saloon. Duffy, Doherty and McSwiggin, who were standing in front of the place, were killed.

No trace of the assassins has been found although 500 police have been deputized to clean up Cook county and pick up known been racketeers.

Chemistry Most Popular

A list of the doctorates (advanced degrees for research) conferred by American colleges in 1925 reveals the interesting fact that chemistry is far in the lead, with a total of 244 doctorates granted. Zoology is next, with 71. At the bottom of the list are meteorology, with 0, paleontology, with 1, and anthropology, with 2. Physics, thought by many to be chemistry's closest rival, in reality claimed only 56 devotees.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON FLOWERS AND THEIR WAYS

Why are Flowers of Different Hues, What is Nature's Most Popular Color? What Percentage Bloom at Night, What is the Best Color Display for Garden or Bouquet and What is the Language of Flowers?

The following is taken from one of Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly's recent lectures upon "Flowers and Their Ways" particularly appropriate at this season of the year.

Dr. Vizetelly who is managing editor of our New Standard Dictionary has devoted thirty-five years to the editing of dictionaries besides being associate editor of several encyclopedias.

Why are some roses red and others pink, orange, yellow or white? Because the cell-sap contains a pigment which, when dissolved by the sap, produces the color of the flower.

Why are flowers of different colors? Because each flower contains a pigment which is either dissolved in the cell-sap or held in the chromoplastids. The blue, purple, and violet are the result of various chemically related substances in solution commonly called anthocyanin; the orange, the red and yellow are due to carotin or some of its derivatives. Other groups of pigments may be found in some flowers.

Altho the colors of flowers are very numerous and of many hues and shades, yet it is possible to segregate them into two groups, the blue and the yellow, and that with each of these one may find red and white.

In an average collection of 1,000 plants, 284 were found to have white flowers, 226 yellow, 220 red, 141 blue, 73 violet, 36 green, 12 orange, 4 brown and 2 black. Of these, the white flowered plants emitted the most fragrant perfume and it was noted that the perfume of the red flower was more pleasing than that of the yellow.

The coloring of flowers has been found to be intimately connected with the alternations of the seasons. In some parts of the world certain outdoor plants show an increase in blossom from December to July. The white flowers exceed in number all the rest during the entire period of the year when plants are in blossom. Following the white come the yellow, then the orange, the blue, the violet, the green, and, lastly, the indigo, which are the most uncommon.

The flowering of plants is closely connected with the mean temperature, but occasionally anomalies are produced which change of temperature cannot explain. It is somewhat striking that there is a rapid decrease in the number of flowering plants from the end of July to that of August.

In the month of January, when all flowers are white to the vernal equinox, the number increases till the middle of May, and then noticeably decreases until the frosts arrest all vegetation. Setting aside the small number of yellow flowers that appear in February and March, the proportion of flowers of that color increases from the beginning of April until the end of June. It remains stationary until the middle of August, after which time it increases again until the frosts come.

The proportional number of red flowers gradually diminishes from February to the end of April, then proceeds on an ascending scale until the end of August, after which it decreases until October. From then on it rises until November is reached, when most of the cultivated flowers are red.

Green or greenish flowers diminish from March until the end of May, and after this the proportion is about uniformly maintained until winter sets in. Blue flowers increase in number to the middle of April, but decrease with the summer solstice then rise again to the number attained in April, only to decrease rapidly and cease totally on the appearance of Jack Frost.

The other colors have not been found to be regular enough to allow of the citing of a rule for them. It is curious to note, however, that each color rises twice and decreases twice. Whenever the white flowers increase, the yellow decrease, and vice versa. The red and the green always correspond as do the blue and the violet flowers. These remarks of mine apply to species rather than to individuals.

The number of plants that open their corolla during the night is very small compared with those that blossom during the day and is only about twelve per cent.

Has it ever occurred to you that it may be advantageous to arrange the flowers in your garden systematically? The subject of such an arrangement has already received the attention of scientists who recommend that blue flowers be placed next to orange; that violet should be arranged next to yellow, and that red and pink flowers are always seen to best advantage when surrounded by verdure or by white flowers. White plants may be displayed to advantage among groups of blue and orange or violet and yellow flowers.

But after all, nothing is more beautiful than the old-fashioned country garden in which flowers grow in a riot of color that gladdens the heart and awakens within us paeans of praise to the glory of our Maker.

The different parts of flowers sometimes change color during the life of the blossom, and there is a small species of forget-me-not which grows as a common weed in the gardens, the flowers of which are sulfur yellow when they first open, but later turn blue. The petals of the hand-flower when they first expand are yellow and later turn to orange, red, and finally purple. The flowers of the hydrangea vary. Some are at first green, then blue or rose color, purplish red variegated with green, or white, and when about to fade, pale green.

There are some flowers that change colors during the day; such, for instance, as the common pink phlox which, in the morning, is light blue but turns to pink as the day advances. Probably the most extraordinary of these plants is the Hibiscus Variabilis, which is white in the morning, pink at noon, and bright red at sunset. Sometimes the colors are modified by the soil, and varieties of the same flower have produced diversity of color when the soil in which they have been cultivated has been changed.

Plants are seldom motionless. As you know, the wind wafts the seed of the dandelion, even as the waves bear the nut of the coco-palm. Some plants attach themselves to particular races. The common plantain, for instance, was once called by the Amerinds the white man's footstep.

Currents of air carry seeds the world over. To verify this statement a German philosopher named Unger took several plates of glass which he cleaned carefully and placed them between the almost air-tight double sashes that protected his study from the rigors of a northern climate. Six months later he took them out and thru a microscope examined the dust that had fallen on them thru imperceptible cracks and crevices. In this apparently inorganic dust he found the pollen of eight distinct plants, the seeds of eleven varieties of fungus, the eggs of four higher infusoria and a living organism of one genus.

Seeds are shed every year upon the surface of the earth in countless myriads, but so many are the enemies that they encounter that scarcely one is to be found in the season that follows. A large proportion may germinate immediately or as soon as the heat of the season is sufficient to excite them, but most of these perish in infancy, starved by the climate or by want of proper nourishment, starved by the surrounding vegetation, or devoured by animals. A greater number still are destroyed in the seed state by insects, birds or other animals. Some rot from the humidity of the soil; others lose their vitality thru slight fermentation in the albumen or the cotyledons, and to all these causes of death seeds enclosed in the earth are particularly exposed.

The Standard dictionary tells us that mummy-wheat, or Pharaoh's corn, is so called because it was believed to have been produced from seeds found in mummy-cases, but the fallacy of the best authenticated stories on this subject is now generally admitted.

At one time raspberries were said to have been grown from seeds found among the human remains buried in Cornish Barrows in England. This was due to the sudden appearance of plants in a region where they were never known before, but the growth was never satisfactorily explained. The hypothesis of the investigators was based on the claim that the seed, having preserved a dormant life for an unheard of period of time, was suddenly freed, and germination promptly followed.

The tending of flowers is a fitting care for the young and the beautiful, for then they dwell among their own emblems, and many a voice of wisdom breathes on their ear from the beautiful blossoms, for a taste for flowers and a love for the beautiful as exhibited in the wonders of nature are evidences of a refined and sensitive being.

Yes, flowers have a language, and some people take great pleasure in finding the hidden meaning, if it be hidden. The rose and the myrtle are a confession of love; the white carnation, a sign of disdain; the ivy is a symbol of perpetual friendship; the heliotrope, a declaration of devotion; but the rose has more than this meaning. It is the symbol of majesty, the emblem of love and beauty, and different colors signify different things.

For instance, the white rose of York and the red rose of Lancaster have, since the Wars of the Roses, been symbols of peace and strife among the English. The lily is the emblem of purity, while the violet, from the fact that it grows often in seclusion, is the symbol of modesty. The primrose is the flower of youth, the forget-me-not that of true love, the rosemary that of remembrance, and the wallflower, love faithful in adversity or fidelity in misfortune.

The pansy for thought is better known than the hyacinth for sorrow, and beware of the woman who favors the narcissus, for that is the symbol of self-admiration. White heather betokens good fortune to come; red heather, solitude. The red poppy is the symbol of consolation, but the white poppy that of forgetfulness.

It has been claimed that no flower will ever become the national emblem of the United States, perhaps because no flower yet produced has measured up to the expectations of our people. Efforts to obtain the popular view of this subject favored the goldenrod, but certain states have selected flowers of their own, Colorado having selected the white and blue columbine, Iowa the wild rose, Michigan the apple blossom, Maine the pine tassel and cone, Montana the bitterroot, Nebraska the goldenrod, Oklahoma the mistletoe, Oregon a native grape, and Vermont the red clover.

Mexico favors the cactus, and across the Sea the cherry blossom is the emblem of China, while the chrysanthemum is the native flower of Japan. The lotus finds favor in Egypt and in India; the blue cornflower is the national flower of Germany; the shamrock the favorite of Ireland; the thistle for the Scotch; the leek for the Welsh; the rose for England, and the violet for Greece. The pomegranate is the national emblem of Spain, the fleur-de-lis the flower of France.

There is a great deal more than I can tell you about flowers and their perfume, and who does not delight in the true scent of the rose and the sweet smell of the violet and mignonette, the jasmine, the carnation, the lilac and honeysuckle.

Far too often nowadays do we see motor cars filled with limbs torn from bushes and from blossoming trees, the wealth of whose bloom will last at best only a few hours. So those who love nature and appreciate the wealth of its beauty should take pleasure in helping to spread that love of nature by protecting the wild flowers that will soon be on view over all our glorious land.

SUDDEN DEATH

George H. Patterson, Father of Mrs. Stevenson, Passed Away Sunday.

George H. Patterson, father of Mrs. H. G. Stevenson, of this city, died at his home at Belle Center Sunday evening.

The deceased was a farmer by occupation and is survived by his wife who was Miss Elizabeth Stranahan before her marriage.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son and daughter: Irma, wife of H. G. Stevenson, and Earl Patterson, of Lima.

Mrs. Stevenson left this morning for her former home. The sudden death of her father was quite a shock to her. Mr. Patterson was known here as he and his wife had frequently visited their daughter and family.

Mr. Stevenson and daughter, Miss Maxine, will leave Wednesday to attend the funeral.

Painting by Titian

Found in Berlin Shop

After remaining for an incalculable number of years nameless and covered with grime, an apparently genuine Titian has been turned up in an antique shop in Berlin.

The subject—one that Titian painted more than once—is "Venus, Cupid and the Organ Player," and, though the Venus is evidently an idealized figure, the organist has been identified as the youthful Philip, later Philip II of Spain, and the Cupid as one of Titian's own infant sons.

Philip met Titian at Milan in 1548 and again at Augsburg two years later, and so might have sat for the likeness. The painting, after treatment, proved to be in almost perfect preservation, and the blue of the sky in the background is exceptionally intense.—The Living Age.

Too Bad

Doctor (to neighbor at banquet)—Do you suffer from neuralgia?
"No!"
"I'm sorry!"
"Sorry? Why?"
"Because I have invented a certain cure for it."

YOUR OLD DIAMOND

Can be mounted into a beautiful, modern White Gold Setting. As usual we have a large assortment for you to select from.

SENSENBRENNER'S.

Scraps of HumorEMBARRASSING

Wills—How do you like the combination furniture they have in some of these New York flats?

Gillis—Not at all. I went to bed in a piece of that kind of junk the other night at a friend's house and when I woke up, two women were serving breakfast on the foot-board, a fellow was signing checks on the head-board and another fellow was underneath the bed making coffee.

Extra Business

When the Plunk Center pharmacy opened the boss hung up a sign:

An additional sale a day
Keeps the sheriff away.
An hour later he said to his chief clerk: "That gent bought a postage stamp. Couldn't you interest him in something else?"

"Oh, yes, I induced him to have a look at our directory."

Pa Took the Air

"Father, freight is goods that are sent by water or land, isn't it?"

"That's right, son."

"Well, then, why is it that the freight that goes by ship is called a cargo, and when it goes by car it is called a shipment?"

And then Johnny wondered why father put on his hat and sauntered outside to get the air.—Edison Topics

The Worse the Better

"It's an old saying that the better the wares the greater the sale."

"Yes," was the reply, "but it's the other way round in my business. The worse the article the more they are used."

"What do you sell?"
"Matches."

ON THE JOB

"That machinist is the most thorough man of his trade I know."
"What makes you think so?"
"He not only works all day, but bolts his food at meals, rivets everybody's attention and hammers every new idea advanced."

The Limit

The tightest man of all I know. Goes to church by radio. Thinks the hymns and sermon great. But tunes out while they pass the plate.

The Outcome to Govern

First Luncher—Let's match for the cats.

Second Ditto—All right. Where shall we dine?

First—Let's match first.

Too Late

"I've come," said the woman politician, "to ask you to support me."
"I'm sorry, miss," replied the man, "but you're too late. I've been married for years."

The Prescription

Daughter—What did the specialist say about auntie's frightful attack of kleptomania?

Mother—He said she must take things more quietly in the future.

Engaged

Caller—I would like a few words with your master?

Maid—Yes, sir. Would you mind waiting until missus has had hers?

A DISCOVERY

Professor Bug—Gracious, that must be the great wall of China!

FRANK RISLER WHO KILLED DRY RAIDER

John McCoy Has Sympathy of Large Number of Friends Who Will Fight For His Liberty.

Steubenville, April 30.—(UP.)—Frank Risler, 52-year-old tinsmith who shot and killed John C. McCoy, veteran county dry raider, at Toronto, near here, will fight for vindication and will be supported by a majority of the citizens of Toronto, it was declared today.

Shortly after this announcement, a citizens' committee was formed for the purpose of raising a fund to defend Risler who said he killed McCoy when he found the raider and fellow-officers searching his home.

"I didn't know they were dry raiders," Risler declared. "They had no search warrant and refused to identify themselves when I asked them to. So I shot."

Risler was arraigned this morning and was remanded to jail to await action of the grand jury. He admits the killing but denied he shot McCoy because the latter was a prohibition agent.

Risler and his friends have retained two prominent Steubenville attorneys, Ralph B. Cohen and John D. Gardner, and the fight for vindication, Risler says, will begin at once.

Police assert McCoy and his comrades were armed with a search warrant when they raided Risler's home. Risler will attempt to obtain his release on bond, his attorneys said.

VIRGINIA SUPREME COURT RULING

Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Merger With Nickel Plate

Richmond, Va., April 30.—(UP.)—The court battle of Chesapeake & Ohio minority stockholders to prevent their railroad going into the proposed Nickel Plate merger which has since been disapproved by the I. C. C. and dissolved, was lost here today.

The Virginia supreme court of appeals denied the minority an appeal from the ruling of Chancery Court Judge Moncure that the railroad had power to lease its properties, rights and franchises. Moncure refused to enjoin the railroad from leasing its properties to the Van Swearingen Nickel Plate system, as proposed in the merger for a term of 999 years.

TWO KILLED IN AIR-PLANE ACCIDENT

Jacksonville, Fla., April 30.—(UP.)—An airplane falling 2,000 feet brought death to Wm. D. Wills, 24, of Dallas, Texas, and Bessie Coleman, negro aviatrix here today.

The pair was to have given an exhibition at the Fair Grounds here tomorrow.

The negroess was instantly killed and Wills, who survived the crash although badly injured, was cremated when a spectator lit a match near the wreck, the flames enveloping the smashed plane, making it impossible to reach Wills' body.

Hessians in America

Of the 29,867 Hessians that came to America during the Revolutionary war only 17,313 returned to Germany. Of these remaining, 548 were killed, and some of the 1,652 wounded died. Some also disappeared, but a great number are known to have remained and settled; grants were given them in Nova Scotia, but many scattered to different parts of the country.

LOANS UP TO $500.00.

A popular loan of $100 under the City Loan plan can be paid back in payments of $7 a month, and the price of a package of chewing gum a day will more than pay the total day will more than pay the total carrying charge.

This is a fair sample of the character of service rendered by The City Loan, and proves beyond a doubt the moderation that has made our institution popular with so many thousands of people.

Another important thing is the fact that every loan is made on your own security, without asking relatives or friends to sign your note. And a good credit once established can be used time and again as needed, for almost any personal reason desired. The City Loan is a safe and worthy place to establish your credit for future usage.

Wash those Heavy Blankets and Bulky Quilts before You Pack them Away

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

WASH your heavy blankets—your bulky quilts in the MAYTAG. See how easy it is to wring them in the Maytag's patented wringer that instantly adjusts itself to a quilt or a handkerchief, and wrings both dry.

Not a bit of trouble to wash those heavy, bulky things in the Maytag. No trouble to wash anything, regardless of its bulk or texture because the Maytag's satin-smooth, cast-aluminum tub is "machinery-free." Every inch is clothes room and the Maytag tub holds more than other washers—21 gallons instead of the usual 17.

9 Outstanding Maytag Features

- 1 Washes faster.
- 2 Washes cleaner.
- 3 Largest hourly capacity. Tub holds 21 gallons.
- 4 Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
- 5 Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rot, swell, split nor corrode—cleans itself.
- 6 Easily adjusted to your height.
- 7 Clothes can be put in or taken out with the washer running.
- 8 All metal wringer. Self adjusting. Instant tension-release.
- 9 Electric motor for wired homes—Gasoline motor where no electricity is available.

MORE MAD DOGS AND DOMESTIC

Animals Afflicted With Rabies—Several Dogs and Sheep Killed.

Dr. Geo. W. Heffner, Health Commissioner of Pickaway County, reports that several dogs and three sheep afflicted with rabies, have been killed in this city and immediate vicinity within the past week.

One of the dogs belonged to Harley Rutter who resides in East Ohio street, this animal was shot by Harley Moore, deputy sheriff yesterday. The animal showed unmistakable signs of the disease although nothing is known of the dog's actions or where it might have been in the meantime.

Thursday a mad dog was killed in Tarlton; one hundred men were on the trail of the animal before it was finally rounded up and shot.

Charles Bell of this city, who owns a farm in Circleville township, northeast of here, had three sheep develop the dread disease Friday. Dr. Rooney of this city, had been called to vaccinate the bell stock and the sheep forced him to climb upon a shed for protection.

People of the city and county who own dogs must exercise extreme care until this epidemic is eradicated.

It is an expensive luxury for the commissioners to settle the claim of farmers for domestic animals suffering from the disease that must be killed.

An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Thursday at one o'clock, Mrs. Price Ashbrook and Mrs. James R. Tootle delightfully entertained at the home of the former near Yellowbud, in Ross county, thirty-five ladies to a very elaborate luncheon in honor of the birthday anniversary of their mother, Mrs. Fred Lutz.

The beautiful home of Mrs. Ashbrook never looked prettier than in its decorations of Spring flowers which were used profusely throughout the house. The color scheme of pink and white which is so easily carried out in the decorations at this time of the year, made the festal boards appear like a beautiful Spring scene and the place cards in the same colors with butterflies mounted thereon gave the impression of a garden party. The two long tables at which the delicious four course luncheon was served were placed one in the dining room and one in the back living room and were centered by great bowls of Spring flowers in which pink and white vied with the greenery. The favors were pink rosebuds.

The guest list included friends from Chillicothe, Kingston, Columbus, Mt. Sterling and these ladies from this city: Mrs. I. F. Boggs, Misses Martha and Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. Leslie May, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck and Mrs. Henry Mader.

Wooden Lightning Rod Used a Century Ago

A picture, showing a village "protected" by wooden lightning rods, is printed in a curious work published by one Lapostolle at Amiens, France, in 1820. The rods are pointed, and from the end of each a straw rope runs down to the ground. The author recommends these rods as being far less expensive than the metallic lightning rods of Franklin.

The same book advocates the use of similar rods for protection against hail. A few of these can be seen in the fields and on the hills in the background of the picture. Of course, the merits of these wooden lightning rods, as well as of any kind of hail rods, were wholly nonsensical, though hail rods of this same variety were once installed on an extensive scale in Europe.—Exchange.

Indignant Pig Bites

A sow, weighing 640 pounds, had been brought into the ring to be sold, when it suddenly charged up the three steps of the rostrum, smashed the door and tore down the seat on which the auctioneer and his clerk were sitting.

It seized the auctioneer's clothes and tore the skin from his leg. The auctioneer jumped over the front of the box into the ring and his clerk jumped after him.

It took several men ten minutes to remove the pig from the rostrum.

OLD TIME DANCE CALLERS.

If you want to hear the old-time square dance callers, attend the Old Fiddlers' Contest at the C. A. C. Gym Thursday night.

All join hand and circle to the left; A little more pie and a little more dough,

To the ladies that meet you, doe se doe, Shake a leg, mister, and hold her tight, Shake a leg, sister, you make a fine sight,

Now all join hands and circle to the right, Do an allamand left and a double sashay,

Let the boys be funny and the girls be gay, Balance all and grand right and left, Now swing your partner high in the air,

But no kissin' goes—you know it ain't fair! Here's to the lady that is so sweet, Here's to the boy with the great big feet,

Here's to the man with the Roman nose, Lickety-split and away she goes! Ladies in the center and dance all around,

Gosh! Ain't it hard to keep feet on the ground? Now if sorrow in the grave has been laid,

All take it easy and then promenade, Don't forget the old-fashioned dance at the C. A. C. Gym Thursday night, May 6.

PURE FOOD MAKES IMPORTANT GAINS

Salmon, Sardines and Butter Improved, Shows Agricultural Department.

Washington. — Among the various food industries in which the enforcement of the Food and Drugs act has brought about noticeably improved conditions during the past year, Dr. C. A. Browne, chief of the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, cites the salmon canning industry, the butter industry and the sardine packing industry.

The bad situation which formerly existed in the salmon canning industry as the result of a few canners persistently putting up decomposed fish has been cleared up to a considerable extent this past year. According to Doctor Browne, this progress was made easier by the fact that nearly all of the cases against violators ultimately resulted in verdicts for the government.

This has demonstrated to those packers who are not disposed through a sense of decency to put up a sound and wholesome pack that it is necessary for them to do so in order to comply with the law. In its campaign the bureau has had the whole-hearted support of the better element of the industry, which through pressure on offending members has assisted in the process of reform.

Better Butter.

Sampling and examination of shipments of butter undertaken during the months of maximum production and greatest traffic resulted in the seizure by orders of the courts of 188 shipments which were not in compliance with the legal standard for butter or were short in weight. In addition 85 cases were developed for prosecution in the courts. This increase in the number of seizures effected over those reported for 1924 does not indicate necessarily that there was a proportionately larger output of low-fat butter, but is thought to be due to perfected control measures and to the fact that the output of many creameries which had not been subjected to surveillance during former years was inspected.

Another industry which, according to Doctor Browne, has shown a very material improvement is the sardine packing industry of Maine. It has been the practice over a period of years to can sardines which have undergone a species of decomposition resulting in what is known as a "belly-blown" condition. Canned fish of this type are classed as adulterated under the Food and Drugs act.

As a combined result of seizures of decomposed sardines and of extensive educational work among the packers over a number of years the pack this season is more nearly free from this and other types of objectionable fish than in any past season during which supervision has been maintained.

Action was taken by the food officials to prevent the shipment into interstate commerce of California oranges rendered unfit for food by a disastrous freeze.

Improvement was brought about in the canning of blueberries in Maine through the use of an apparatus devised by the food officials for removing unsound berries.

A marked reduction in the proportion of rots and spots included in shipments of shell eggs was also noted during the year.

1,656 Court Actions.

Altogether 1,656 court actions were instituted during the past year. They included, in addition to those mentioned, cases based upon adulteration or misbranding of such commodities as alimentary paste, apple butter, baked products, baking powder, beverages, coffee, colors, confectionery, buttermilk, cheese, drugs, frozen eggs, feeds, shellfish, flavoring extracts, flour, fresh, canned and dried fruits, jellies, maple sugar, corn meal, powdered milk, nuts, oils, oleomargarine, rice, sauce, sirups, soups, spices and condiments, tea, canned and fresh vegetables, vinegar and water. More than 14,000 cases have been terminated in federal courts since the enactment of the Food and Drugs act.

Although much improvement is brought about through prosecution of violators, the bureau regards the law as a corrective rather than a punitive measure. The specialists of the bureau assist manufacturers and others in obtaining information that will enable them to so conduct their processes of manufacturing, packing, storing and shipping that their products will meet the requirements of the law.

The extensive information developed by their researches on the composition, methods of manufacture, and wholesomeness of various foods is made available to all who desire to improve their processes or the quality of their products. Information also is furnished regarding the labeling requirements in order that each manufacturer may devise truthful and informing labels for his products.

Worst of All

Newark, N. J.—The most ignominious treatment a woman can inflict upon a man, in the opinion of Vice Chancellor Backus, is to ignore him at meals while serving the rest of the family. Alexander M. MacLeod of Paterson, a lawyer, was so disciplined for eight weeks because his wife objected to his participation in politics. He has won a divorce.
